From the Chair

November 2015, By Alan Lawrence

It has been an exciting summer and fall for those who care about climate change.

In June, Pope Francis used an encyclical to tell the world that climate change is a global problem with grave implications. Pope Francis released an unprecedented call to action on climate change. His encyclical cast climate action as a moral imperative.

He wrote that "Climate change represents one of the principal challenges facing humanity in our day." The pope chastised powerful institutions and developed countries, arguing they are not doing enough to tackle climate change, saying, "Many of those who possess more resources and economic or political power seem mostly to be concerned with masking the problems or concealing their symptoms."

In August, President Obama unveiled his plan to reduce greenhouse gases by regulating greenhouse gas emissions from the nation's coal-burning power plants.

From the Chair....

“We’re the first generation to feel the impact of climate change and the last generation that can do something about it,” he said. “Climate change is not a problem for another generation. Not anymore.”

“Power plants are the single biggest source of harmful carbon pollution that contributes to climate change,” Obama said in the video that introduced his Clean Power Plan. “Until now, there have been no federal limits to the amount of carbon pollution plants dump in the air.”

Locally, in Green Bay, Sierra Club rallied with other organizations and concerned citizens in front of the Pulliam Power Plant, supporting the Clean Power Plan. The rally was reported by four television news crews and Wisconsin Public Radio.

Later in September President Obama toured Alaska and pointed out melting glaciers and talked about climate change. “The time to heed the cynics and critics and the deniers has passed. The time to plead ignorance has surely passed. Those who want to ignore the science are increasingly alone. On this issue, of all issues, there is such a thing as being too late, and that moment is almost upon us.”

The Pope visited the United States in September and spoke about climate change to the White House, Congress and United Nations in separate speeches highlighting a continuing commitment to make climate change a central issue of his papacy. He has pushed to make climate change a moral issue, particularly given the toll it will take on the world’s poorest. The Pope also praised President Obama’s Clean Power Plan as an “encouraging” step.

Our group worked with Lawrence University students to organize a climate rally in Appleton on October 14. This was one of approximately 200 climate events across the United States that day. The People’s Climate Movement (the organizers of the 400,000 person march in New York City last year) worked with us to organize this National Day of Action, six weeks before international climate talks in Paris.

The October 14 events were intended to energize major rallies around the world, and the Global Climate March in Paris on November 29 preceding the Paris Climate Summit (United Nations Climate Change Conference) which runs from November 30 to December 11. Another mass mobilization and action on December 12th was planned to make sure the people, not the politicians, have the last word.

Unfortunately, the November 13 terrorist attacks in Paris will interfere with the Paris Climate Summit. Citing the heightened security situation in Paris, the French government has prohibited both the Global Climate March and the mass mobilization events planned in Paris.

November began with some fantastic news as President Obama finally rejected the Keystone XL Pipeline. This project had been under review for seven years, much longer than most of thought it should be. The pipeline was, and continues to be, divisive. We hope this hastens the end of tar sands oil from Canada. Others believe this decision will ruin economies and lead to more hazardous oil transportation by train.

My hope is that rail transportation will not rescue the tar sands industry. And my hope is that President Obama's rational for the pipeline rejection will make it harder for other pipelines to be approved. Enbridge is planning "Line 61" to cross Wisconsin from Superior through Delavan. This pipeline will have twice the capacity of the Keystone XL, and must not operate.

The Wisconsin Gazette said in their February story,

"The Wisconsin pipeline dwarfs Keystone and affects every waterway in the state". We must be vigilant and prepared to get in the way. (Please see this story for more information. <http://www.wisconsin-gazette.com/wisconsin/xxlbreakwisconsin-pipeline-dwarfs-keystone-and-affects-every-waterway-in-the-state.html>)

Let me end my column with some news about our group. A year ago we moved out of Bubolz Nature Preserve to the Fox River Environmental Education Alliance (FREEA) because planned construction required it. FREEA has been a great home for the past year, but we've re-evaluated things and have decided to move back to Bubolz for our January meeting. Our December holiday party will be our last meeting at FREEA.

But we have a relationship with FREEA now. Last April we organized a very successful Fox River Earth Day Hike for the community, using FREEA's facility and trail. We will do this again next April 16, again kicking off the Earth Day week.

Thanks for reading my comments. As leader of our group I welcome your feedback.

The Great Pacific Garbage Patch

43 people attended the viewing of the new documentary: "Plastic Paradise" at the Appleton Public Library on September 30. I wish there would have been 243 people, because this is a message that needs to get out to as many people as possible. It was a well done video, which of course, was very depressing and frustrating; an unfortunate truth. The unintended consequences of our need for convenience has led to tons and tons of plastics in all types and sizes to accumulate on this once beautiful island in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. The current flow of the ocean brings this plastic junk in massive amounts to this final resting place. It has also created a huge problem for the birds and animals that live on this island. Many of them die a miserable death and when they are examined by the local scientists after their death, their stomachs are filled with plastic pieces. This is such a large quantity of garbage that is just can't be hauled away.

So PLEASE take a serious look at what you are buying and replace plastic water bottles with aluminum reusable ones. Use a cloth bag when you shop, be conscious of what packaging is used when you buy a product. We can all make a small change that will create a big difference. If you would like to view this documentary on your own time, it can be check out at the Appleton Public Library. If you are a teacher, consider showing it to your class. Parents, show it to your children. Call your legislators and tell them to ban plastic bags. The documentary is fully entitled: "Plastic Paradise; The Great Pacific Garbage Patch" by Angela Sun.

Public lands?

The Walker Administration is in the works of passing legislation that would ban anyone who is attempting to video record a hunter or hunters who use dogs for bear hunting or wolf hunting (which is on hold for now in WI, even though Senator Johnson is trying to remove wolves from the endangered species list). The problem with this is that it will apply to ALL PUBLIC HUNTING lands. What part of public don't they understand. Those of us who are anti-barbaric hunting have the RIGHT, to be in the woods along with the hunters. Does their tax dollars carry more weight than mine? Apparently so, as the NRA is probably behind all this non-sense. We have already lost the battle of hunting in state parks, fight now for the right to walk on our public lands, no matter what time of the year it is. If these hunters feel harassed, well that is too bad. I am feeling harassed myself knowing that another one of my rights will soon be taken away. Contact your Representatives and State Senators before it is too late.

Cross-country ski at Reforestation Camp

We will be skiing at the Brown County Reforestation Camp north of Green Bay. Hot apple cider will be served afterward!! Contact: Rich Krieg, 920-660- 3557, richkrieg@new.rr.com

January 9, Saturday

Snowshoe at Skunk & Foster Lakes State Natural Area, Amherst

Fulfill your New Year's resolution to exercise more by joining us on a snowshoe hike! We'll combine a section of the Ice Age Trail with the trails at Skunk Lake to make two nice loops through the woods. Hilly terrain offers awesome views of the glacial pothole lakes below. If there's not enough snow to snowshoe, we'll just hike instead. BYO snowshoes. Optional: Head into nearby Amherst for lunch. Contact: Kelly Ramstack, 920-540-9139

January 15-18, Friday-Monday

Cross-country ski weekend "Up-North"

As in recent years, this trip will be somewhat fluid in nature. The dates are definite: Fri, Sat, Sun, and Mon, over the MLK weekend. The unpredictability of the snow for several years has made it impractical to make lodging reservations far in advance, due to the risk of non-refundable deposits. However, WE WILL SKI!! Destination: most likely "up north", but we will be as changeable as Mother Nature herself, going where the snow is: The Phelps area, and the well groomed trails of After Glow Resort; Eagle River and Anvil trails; Boulder Junction, or north to the U.P. and the predictable snow of ABR. Lodging: to be arranged. This may have to be close to a last minute decision, based on snow availability. We will try for group accommodations, but may end up with motel rooms. Cost/Fee: Also to be determined, but will include lodging, meals, and trail fees. In the past, group/cabin settings have run around $125/person for 3 nights lodging. Naturally this will depend on where we find snow and rooms. Deposit: $50 to hold your spot on this spontaneous ski weekend. Contact: Maureen Birk, 3381 Nicolet Dr, Green Bay, 54311, 920-468-7252, birkmr@yahoo.com

Fellow Sierrans enjoyed a 10 mile hike on a beautiful fall day in Northern Kettle Moraine on October 10th. Led by Margaret Klose and Phil Synder, they plan on leading more hikes in 2016.

January 23, Saturday

Snowshoeing at Mosquito Hill Nature Center,

just east of New London

Winter temperatures freeze the wetlands and that means a chance to get in to see lowlands of the Wolf River that are not usually accessible. Meet in the Nature Center's warming room. We'll go for about a 2 hour hike on flat, easy walking terrain. Bring a sandwich if you'd like to stay for a late lunch and hot chocolate in the cozy log-sided warming room. Fee: Donation for trail use. Snowshoe rental available (additional fee). Arrive 15 minutes early if you are renting. If snow cover is insufficient, the hike will still be on – just done without snowshoes. If you have not snowshoed before this is the perfect place to start. No experience needed. Contact: Nancy Brown-Koeller, 715 853-6625

February 6, Saturday

Snowshoe Hike & Wine Tasting in Manawa

Snowshoe the Little Wolf River Trail (LWRT) over a covered bridge and through the woods to get to Winemaker's Daughter in downtown Manawa. We'll sample locally made wines and warm up by the fire before snowshoeing back. Learn how the LWRT is built & maintained entirely by volunteers. If there's not enough snow to snowshoe, we'll just hike instead. BYO snowshoes. *NOTE: Must be 21 to come on this outing! Kelly Ramstack, 920-540-9139.

Feb. 13, Saturday

Snowshoeing at Navarino Nature Center

Winter brings a chance to hike to the porcupine den and often find Mr. Porcupine at home. Continue over a frozen bog and through the woods. Some small hills, uneven terrain. Meet in the Nature Center lower level for about a 2 ½ hour hike. Fee: Donation for trail use. Rental available (additional fee). If snow cover is insufficient, the hike will still be on – just done without snowshoes. Arrive 15 minutes early if you are renting. Enjoy a hot chocolate after the hike. Contact: Nancy Brown-Koeller, 715 853-6625

Outings: Get outside and join us on one of our outings! They are a great way to meet other outdoor enthusiasts. Outings are open to members and non-members alike. In order to participate, sign up at one of our general meetings or contact the outings leader directly. Time and meeting locations of outings can change. Some trips are weather dependent. Times are not listed in these descriptions to ensure participants will check with trip leaders before proceeding.

Needed: Someone To Take Over Fox Valley Sierra Group Garlic Mustard Pulling Project in 2016

This past May we have noticed a significant decrease in the amount of garlic mustard growing along the Indians Mounds Trail while pulling garlic mustard at High Cliff State Park. We have seen an increase in the amount of native wild flowers growing where garlic mustard once existed along the Indian Mounds Trail because of our work.

In addition, we have started pulling garlic mustard at Memorial Park in Combined Locks.

I am looking for someone to take over the FVSG Garlic Mustard Pulling Project so we don't lose what we have accomplished during the past 8-10 years.

If you are interested, please contact me. I will work with you this coming spring in 2016. Contact me: 920-739-6041 or email: dschaber@athenet.net.

Early Evening Echoes

From a standing hollow timber in a distant wood
Comes the distinct hoot of a wise coot.
As the sun fades red in the western sky,
He adjusts his foot, thinking of his future loot.
There's a mouse out there that he will not share,
And a worried hare - that had best take care.

Next the sound from the ridge - as a truck comes down,
Makes a turn toward the bridge - then a hollow sound -
As it crosses the pond, not on solid ground.
The the engine strains - as the truck climbs the hill;
Then silence returns - and all is still.

It's not quite dark when the doe comes out
With an active baby fawn, that does prance about.
When a coyote's shrill yelp leads the doe to rout,
Shyly returning to the woods - as she has her doubt.

Now as darkness comes to the nearby pond,
The young frogs sound off in a chorus round.
Then the bull frog answers in a deep bass voice.
Then silence returns - and the woods rejoice.

From the south comes the barking from the farmer's yard;
Their self appointed sentinel shows that he's on guard.
Then the putting cadence of a milling machine,
Tells of human interference in nature's dream.
And the head lights of an auto pierce the night time air;
All these things I remember - and I'd like to share.

As I turn from the porch of my cabin in the woods,
I think of this experience - and it is all good.
Nature showed its bounty on this fading day,
As its early evening echoes now have had their way.
I will close this tribute - I've no more to say.

Sierra Club Water Sentinels are the first line of defense of America's waters. We live on the water planet. However, water is a finite resource with only about 1% of the world's water actually being available for human consumption. Water pollution & over-use are threatening both the quality & quantity of our water resources at an alarming rate.

Return by Dec. 31

Cindy Carter - I am again running for Political Chair and Program Chair. I am and have been for many years a political junkie. I have also been a friend of the environment as long as I can remember back to my childhood. I also enjoy greatly the opportunity to seek out interesting speakers that relate to our mission. I ask for your vote for this coming election.

Will Stahl - Though I joined Sierra Club in 1986, in Illinois, I have only been active since the early 2000's here in Wisconsin. For a number of years, almost since joining the Ex-com, I have served as FVSG delegate to the JMC Executive Committee. I currently serve as the JMC Ex-Com-appointed chapter conservation chair. I hope to continue in those roles. Growing up in rural Illinois, I spent my time walking in the woods, playing in the creek and riding my bike. My idea of a good time hasn't changed much.

Diana Lawrence - I serve currently as the Secretary for the Fox Valley Sierra Group and have done so for several years. I enjoy the outdoors as much as I imagine most Sierran's do. I also very much enjoy indoor activities such as reading by the fire and cross stitching. Learning is a central theme in my life and I have been a life-long, curious learner. The chance to learn something new comes everyday if one is open to it. As I have all of my life, if I have a question I try and find some books on the subject and read about it. Today the books are often internet resources as well. But I do remember as kids we ran to the family set of Encyclopedias. I think that set of encyclopedias was my parent's best investment as it created curious kids who grew up to be curious adults. Alan Lawrence and I have been married for 12 years and I have a daughter who is now grown and on her own.

Jo Hjerstedt - I've been a member of the Sierra Club for over 30 years. In that time I've enjoyed many outings, social events and meetings the club has offered. For the past 3 years I have been able to serve on the Executive Committee. As a board member I have been able to guide the club in our involvement in local and national issues. There is much work still to be done and I would like your support to continue. I believe now is the time to explore, enjoy and protect the environment.

Alan Lawrence - I joined Sierra Club in 1999, with an interest in outings, the meeting topics, and environmental protection. I have served on their board of directors since 2000, and also maintain our website. Since 2003 I have served as the chairperson for the Fox Valley Sierra Group, the regional group of 1600 Sierra Club members in northeastern Wisconsin.

I have always liked the nature, initially enjoying and exploring it, coincidently two of the words in our club motto, though I didn't know that most of my life. I've never ceased my awe of nature, but these days I find that protecting nature has become the third leg of my involvement. While I have the ability to do something I believe I have the responsibility to try. This is why I am proud to serve on our board and why I am running for another term.
